ASSAULT WITH INTENT TO KILL

James Johnson Given Hearing before Squire Hill Following Shooting Affair of Monday. His Victim Suffers Little.

James Johnson, charged with assault with intent to kill and carrying concealed weapons, is in the Adams County jail awaiting trial at August Court, Squire Hill having placed his bail at $4000 at a hearing held Monday afternoon following the shooting affair in town earlier in the day when a trainload of seven hundred colored excursionists arrived here. Albert Washington the man whom he shot, returned home with the excursion apparently little the worse for his wounds.

Johnson's guilt was established by several witnesses among them Conductor C. B. Payne, of the train, who with Edward Dungee took charge of Johnson until the officers arrived. Mr. Payne testified to the fact that negroes were rapidly getting ready to attack Johnson with knives and razors when he and Dungee interfered.

Frank Howard, colored, was one of the witnesses and by his testimony indicated that he was the man Johnson was after and that Washington was shot by mistake. Howard and Johnson had had an altercation on the way to Gettysburg about the payment for some whiskey and knives had been drawn at that time. Washington said Monday was only the second time in his life that he had seen Johnson and thought the defendant must be crazy when he started firing.

District Attorney Neely conducted the case for the Commonwealth. The prisoner was not represented.

Washington, with his three wounds, was in high spirits before he left town in the evening. He was more or less the hero of the day and exclaimed to the delight of his auditors, "It takes more than a 32 to kill me."

The disgraceful scenes of the early afternoon were continued until the excursion train pulled out. One woman with a case verging on delirium tremens was specially wild and was hustled screaming through the streets of town to the Western Maryland station. Once or twice she threw herself on the pavement and created her share of the excitement of the day. One drunken negro was found along West Confederate avenue this morning.

HOUSE BURNED

The house of George C. Oylar on the farm he purchased from Jonas Starnier, near Arendtsville, burned to the ground Sunday afternoon together with a large part of the contents. Samuel Gladfelter is tenant on the farm. The fire is supposed to have been caused by a defective flue and had gained such headway when discovered that all efforts were at once put forth to save the furniture. Little of the goods on the second story was saved but a good part of the first floor furniture was got to a place of safety. The building was a log house weatherboarded and the entire one end was in flames before the family and some visitors who were there knew that anything was wrong. The house was partly covered by insurance but Mr. Gladfelter's loss on the contents is total.

PUT UP GOOD GAME

The Y. M. C. A. team put up the best game of the year Monday evening and won from the Has Beens 5 to 0. The local boys are much pleased over the development of the team during the past few weeks and expect to win from Hanover at that place on Wednesday, "Gettysburg Day." It is expected that a large crowd will go down to enjoy the game and the other events of the day. The batteries for Monday evening's game were Y. M. C. A., Hartzell and Skelly; Has Beens, Stock and Carter.

TO LAY CORNER STONE JULY 9

Corner Stone of New St. James Lutheran Church will be Laid with Special Ceremony on Second Sunday in July.

The cornerstone of the new St. James Lutheran church will be laid on Sunday morning, July 9, immediately following the close of the morning Sunday School session.

The Sunday School will march in a body from Brua Chapel to the new church site and will take part in the musical portion of the program. Efforts are being made to have present Dr. Joel Swartz, who was pastor at the time the cornerstone was laid in 1888. Dr. J. A. Clutz will also make one of the addresses at the service.

By the date for the cornerstone laying the rough boards will have been placed on the floor of the building and the platform will be made there. Special seats will be reserved for those who were present at the corner stone laying in 1888, of whom there are quite a number.

In the new cornerstone will be placed a Bible, hymn book, catechism, list of all the present members of the church, copies of the St. James Messenger and all the town papers, a copy of the church publications and other articles. The contents will be sealed in a copper box to be placed inside of the stone.

The 1888 cornerstone with all its contents will also be placed in the new structure.

TO FACILITATE HOLIDAY WORK

Postmaster C. Wm. Beales has received instructions from Postmaster General Frank H. Hitchcock to the effect that "Please do not open until Christmas" may be placed on mail packages hereafter. The order is to lessen as much as possible the congestion of mail matter around the holiday season, when the clerks and carriers are taxed to their utmost capacity.

The amendment to the postal regulations which will permit the words to be placed on the mail parcels is as follows: There may be placed on such mail matter of the third and fourth classes, or on the package, wrapper or envelope including the same, or on a tag or label attached thereto, either in writing or otherwise, the words "please do not open until Christmas," or words to that effect.

This is considered a radical departure for the postoffice department and is along the line adopted several years ago by the Adams Express Company, its object being to induce the people to mail their Christmas packages far enough ahead of the day to ensure their being delivered in time and to give the department employees as little trouble as possible the final few days before the holidays, when there is usually the greatest volume of matter handled.

Marks sent by mail hereafter can be marked just as express packages now are. This will not only guarantee the prompt delivery of the parcels of mail during the most trying period of the year but will greatly relieve the burden of the men employed by Uncle Sam.

McKNIGHTSTOWN 20, MONTEREY 2

Piper, for the home team, was hit hard by the visitors while Bream, for McKnightstown, not only pitched a very steady game but struck out thirteen of the opposing batters.

The features of the game were a nice running catch by Abbott, of Monterey and the heavy stick work of P. Rebert who got four hits and four runs for McKnightstown.

CONCRETE LAMPPOSTS BOTH ARTISTIC AND DURABLE

Attractive Ones on the "Belfry Style"
Are Used in Riverside, Cal.

We are gradually breaking away from tradition in the design of utilitarian objects, even lampposts being considered worthy of artistic treatment.

An interesting example is the simple yet attractive concrete posts, "belfry style," used in Riverside, Cal. They carry three electric bulbs, are surmounted by a double cross, and the whole device is worthy of the "city beautiful" in which they stand.

The Franciscan fathers, who founded the southern California missions, made use of the design from which this street ornament is adapted.

The lamppost has been in use for quite awhile, and still it looks as good as new.

Trees in a wood lot, like fruit, vegetable and flower, get ripe or arrive at a state of maturity if not in quite so exact and definite a manner. This maturity is indicated sometimes by decay, more often by slowness of growth, while it is usually safe to follow the rule of cutting the tree when it is not making as great a total growth in wood as the nearby trees would make in addition to their present rate of growth were it cut out. Putting it another way, a tree is ripe when its presence in a wood lot is doing more harm than good.

THEY.

Why don't they keep the streets a little cleaner?
You ask with keen annoyance not undue.
Why don't they keep the parks a little greener?
Did you ever stop to think that "they" means you?
How long will they permit this graft and stealing?
Why don't they see that courts are clean and true?
Why will they wink at crooked public dealing?
Did you ever stop to think that "they" means you?

HOME TRADE ALWAYS BEST.

Schemes of the Catalogue Houses Only Hoodwink the Buyer.

How much of the money which is sent away to catalogue houses ever returns to the community from which it is sent? How much of the money spent with the home merchant goes to build up other places? Who helps pay the taxes, build roads and bridges, erect churches and schools, fosters and encourages public improvements, buys farm produce, carries names of the needy on the debit side of the books the year around and is willing and eager at all times to assist them by credit or money, if they may need it?

Is it the catalogue house or the local merchant? The local merchant. Then why not give him the opportunity to figure on that "cash order" perhaps you are about to buy? He can fill it, freight included, as cheaply as, and in some instances much less than, the catalogue fellows will charge.

Stand up for home trade. Dollars sent away for goods never return, but help build up the large cities and big catalogue houses which are not only trying to squeeze the life out of the country towns, but are selling goods not one cent cheaper than local dealers from whom the people expect credit whenever they need it.

Farm and Garden

A JERSEY PRIZE WINNER.

Mr. Widener's Gentle Little Lady Isabel Has Many Blue Ribbons.

Little Lady Isabel, whose picture is shown here, is one of the most beautiful and best producing Jerseys on this side of the water, and she is the pride of her owner, P. A. B. Widener, at his show farm, Elkins Park.

She has won enough blue ribbons to decorate her stall all round its top railing, and the fancier whose money could take her away from the Widener stables has not yet come into public prominence.

She is as gentle as she is pretty, and her butter average is more than fifteen pounds per week.

The Jersey cow is a highly specialized product of centuries of breeding for the primary purpose of the economical production of butter, says the Breeder's Gazette. The intelligent breeder will hope to produce butter-making function by reproducing this form. There is a fascination in watching a lot of beautiful, fawnlike Jersey heifers as they are developing into cows, especially if their breeding is such as to give promise of unusual excellence. There is enough of chance in it to satisfy in some degree the gambling spirit that we mortals are cursed with.

The science (or lottery) of breeding has such a charm for the amateur that many formulas of inbreeding have been experimented with to the detriment of some families of Jerseys. To be sure, a few remarkable freaks have resulted, but these are of questionable value, since they never reproduce themselves. The phenomenal results of mating the St. Lambert herd with Stoke Pogis III, have been the inspiration that has resulted in inbreeding.

"There is no place for a dog on the same farm with a Jersey cow. Decide which you prefer to keep and then either kill the dog or sell the cow. I once sold two fresh heifers to a friend at a modest price," says H. S. Chapman.

"They were gentle pets, kind to milk and giving eleven pounds of butter each per week. My friend took them home and turned them into a woods pasture. At milking time the big black dog was sent to the woods to drive up the heifers. When the heifers saw that dog coming at them they went up all right as high as they could go without climbing the trees. They did climb the fences. The dog was a 'good' dog and kept on in line with his instincts, chasing the frightened heifers till finally the two together, my friend and the dog, got the poor little cows into a fence corner, where my friend milked them, the big black dog watching the while to keep the heifers in that quiet, peaceful condition of mind so imperatively necessary to a normal flow of milk.

"A few weeks under this system and the heifers were nearly dry, when my friend wished me to take them back, which I did. The next year they made recorded churn tests of over fourteen and a half pounds of butter each in seven days, and at five years old the two were sold to satisfied purchasers for $400."

General Farm Notes.

No man who thinks anything of a tree will ever make a hitching post of it.

There is a little mint of money saved in buying feed in the fall of the year and holding it till spring need comes.

One of the best tools a farmer can have is a good riveter for mending leather straps of all kinds. One of these will save a good many trips to town and maybe more than one runaway.

Keep a blank book and jot down the mistakes you make this year as things to be avoided next year. It is easy to remember what you made money on, but it makes a pretty smart man to see his own failures.

A good many farmers are getting so they would rather sell their potatoes in the fall right from the field and not have to bother with storing them and running the risk of low prices next spring. The shrinkage, too, is a big item to be figured on.

To get the best results from the agricultural paper it should be read and discussed by every member of the family. A discussion upon subjects relating to the farm and the home will interest the younger members of the family and give incentive for more thoughtful reading.

Pittsburg, Pa., June 27.—A. L. Pearson, an attorney and president of the Union Realty company, of this city, and Samuel M. Carnahan, a clerk employed in the office of Holmes, Wardrop & Co., brokers, were arrested, charged with the theft of bonds valued at $10,000 belonging to the brokerage firm.

Pearson is a member of a prominent family. His father, General A. L. Pearson, commanded the state troops during the railroad riots of 1877.

Both men were committed to jail in default of $12,000 bail each. It is stated that $5000 worth of the bonds have been recovered and the balance have been traced. Charges of larceny and receiving stolen goods were made against Pearson and Carnahan by Joseph H. Holmes, senior member of the brokerage firm.

The bonds in question disappeared from the company's office on Nov. 13, 1908, at a time when Mr. Holmes was in New York and Mr. Wardrop on a business trip in the west. When the two members of the firm returned home the loss of the bonds was discovered.

Believing that they had been mislaid, a thorough search was made. Over a ton of waste paper, which had been taken to a freight station, was brought back and examined without success. During the search Carnahan was one of the hardest workers. It is alleged. A circular describing the bonds was sent broadcast. A week ago they were offered for sale in New York. The sale was allowed to go through.

Yesterday Pearson and Carnahan were confronted by officers in the former's office. Carnahan at once accused Pearson of having the bonds, and both were arrested.

ASKED TO PUT UP FOR LORIMER

Funk Tells of Hines' Request
For $10,000.

STORY OF BRIBERY FUND

Harvester Company Man Swears Lumberman Said $100,000 Was Spent to Elect Lorimer to Senate.

Washington, June 27.—The crucial stage of the investigation into the charges that bribery effected the election of William Lorimer as United States senator from Illinois was reached when Clarence S. Funk, general manager of the International Harvester company, told about the alleged $100,000 "slush fund."

Facing the man whom he accused, Mr. Funk declared flatly before the senatorial probers that Edward Hines, the Chicago lumberman, had asked him to contribute $10,000 to the fund, that Hines had said, "We put Lorimer over at Springfield, but it cost $100,000 to do it," and that Hines had come to him afterward to impress upon him that he did not mean that money was used at Springfield.

Mr. Funk faced Mr. Hines, who had received special permission to attend the hearing, instead of being required to remain in the witness room.

Funk startled the members of the committee when he charged that four private detectives of a Chicago agency had been shadowing him ever since he testified several months ago before the Helm committee of the Illinois legislature. He said the detectives had even followed him to Washington and were still dogging him even to the doors of the investigating committee rooms. Mr. Funk said he got one of the detectives in an "uncomfortable" position and quizzed him about his work.

"I do not care to give the name of this young man," the witness said, "but I will produce him before the committee if it desires."

John H. Marble, of counsel for the committee, began the direct examination. Mr. Funk testified that as general manager of the Harvester company, the so-called "trust," it was one of his duties to keep in touch with political affairs.

He declared that never to his knowledge had the company used money to get votes in legislatures or congress. He said that, so far as he could, he had always avoided discussing Lorimer personally.

How He Met Lorimer.

"Have you regarded Mr. Lorimer as a factor opposed to the International Harvester company?" asked Mr. Marble. "No, sir."

Just how he was introduced to Senator Lorimer was described by Mr. Funk. He said the meeting occurred at a deep waterways convention in Washington about eighteen months ago.

He told of another meeting with Mr. Lorimer, and added: "The senator was very kind on both occasions."

The witness said he had never heard Senator Lorimer's name mentioned in connection with a tax fight on the McCormicks, who are largely interested in the harvester company.

Mr. Funk said the harvester company was interested in closing the Chicago river, which flowed through their company's plant. The Edward Hines Lumber company and Senator Lorimer were in favor of deepening the river. This did not prejudice him against Lorimer, he said.

"I felt, as long as the government engineers were opposed to closing the river, Lorimer's attitude was a matter of indifference," said the witness. He declared there had been no difficulties between Mr. Hines and himself or their respective companies, so far as he knew.

"Do you recall a certain conversation with Mr. Edward Hines?" asked Marble. "Yes, sir."

"Slush Fund" Assessment.

Mr. Funk then repeated his tale of the conversation with Mr. Hines in which the request for the $10,000 contribution is said to have been made. "Just as casual as the sale of a car of lumber," was the way Mr. Funk related the proposition.

The witness said he met Hines at the Union League club shortly after Lorimer's election.

"Hello," said Hines, according to Mr. Funk, "you are just the man I want to see." The witness explained that he was not repeating the exact words necessarily, but only giving his recollection of the conversation.

"Well, we put Lorimer over down at Springfield, but it cost $100,000 to do it," Hines said, according to Funk.

The witness added that Hines explained that they had to act quickly. "What else?" urged Mr. Marble. "I said: 'Now we are seeing some of our friends to get the matter fixed up.'"

Mr. Funk said he inquired how much he was getting.

"Well, we can only go to a few big people," Mr. Funk said Hines replied, "and if we can get ten to contribute $10,000 we can wipe it out."

"I asked him why he came to us," said Mr. Funk. "He said: 'You are as much interested in having the right kind of man at Washington as any of us.' I said we were not in that kind of business. He began to argue about Lorimer. I was anxious to terminate the conversation I soon got up and left."

GERMAN EMPEROR DECORATES MORGAN

Delighted With Gift of Luther's
Autograph Letter.

Kiel, Germany, June 27.—J. Pierpont Morgan presented Emperor William with the autograph letter written by Martin Luther to the Emperor Charles V., and for which the American banker recently paid $25,500.

His majesty was immensely pleased and forthwith conferred the grand cross of the Order of the Red Eagle on Mr. Morgan. This is the second highest order of knighthood in the gift of the German crown.

The letter, which is in Latin, is of great historical importance. It was written in 1521 during the reformer's return journey from the Diet of Worms and described the proceedings and defended his attitude. The letter never reached the emperor, as its contents were such that no one dared deliver it.

A Florence dealer, representing Mr. Morgan, obtained the epistle at an autograph sale at Leipzig, May 3.

As soon as it became known that the document was to go to America the annoyance of the German public was expressed in many newspaper editorials.

BALLOON LOST IN SEA

Two Persons Perished When Aerial Craft Was Swept Away.

Bremen, Germany, June 27.—One of the four balloons which ascended at Paris Saturday fell into the North Sea near the island of Juist, of the East Frisian group.

A violent storm prevailed and the aerial craft was carried rapidly out to sea. Two persons were aboard her.

A rescue boat was sent out as soon as possible, but returned, having recovered only an empty ballast bag marked "R. G. B.—70."

The other three balloons made landings on the East Frisian coast.

AN ESCAPED LUNATIC

By MARTHA V. PEASLEY
Copyright by American Press Association, 1911.

My brother Henry wrote me that he was going to bring his friend out to our country place for the week end. "He's a jim dandy. Edith," wrote Henry, "and I'm bringing him out purposely to introduce him to you."

About a mile from our place was the state insane asylum. Its proximity was a great disadvantage in that I was in constant dread lest some maniac should escape, come to our house and murder us all. An escaped lunatic had once come there when no one but a maid was in the house and had frightened her out of her senses.

About 5 o'clock one afternoon when I was just ready to go downstairs and out on to the piazza there came a ring at the telephone. I answered the call myself. It was from the asylum and was an inquiry as to whether we had seen or heard of one of the inmates who had left the grounds and gone in our direction. He had passed out with a suit case in his hand, telling the gatekeeper that he had been discharged and was going home. He was one of the most dangerous patients in the institution.

I replied that we had seen nothing of him and sincerely hoped we would not. Then I went out on the piazza and tried to think of something else. But I was unable to fix my thoughts on anything save a madman coming down on us. Every man who passed on the road a short distance from where I sat looked to me like a raving maniac. Finally I saw a man coming carrying a suit case. My heart went right up into my throat. I muttered a silent prayer that he might pass the gate. He did not. He stopped and looked up at our house. "He's the escaped patient," I moaned. "He's de liberating whether he'll come here or go farther. Heavens, he's coming in!"

There was no man in the house, and I simply must meet him. I sat perfectly still while he came up the walk, my heart wild with beating. I had read stories of persons turning away insane persons by coolness and strategy, but I didn't find any coolness in myself, and, as for strategy, I was incapable of carrying on even an ordinary conversation with the man. By the time he reached the piazza I saw a wild eyed creature with fiery red hair and atmospheric disturbances similar to heat waves emanating from his finger ends. Indeed, had I looked at him through dancing water or an imperfect window pane he couldn't have appeared more terrible. He said something to me, but I had no idea what it was, except that it was a question. "Go on," I said. "Oh, go on! They're after you! I just had a telephone from them asking if we had seen you. As you value your freedom, go!"

He stood looking at me. Was he going to spring upon me or would he with that cunning often to be found in persons of his kind attempt to outwit me so that he could effect an entrance into the house and murder us all without our being able to call for help?

"You can't come in!" I continued excitedly. "Oh, go on! Don't stop a moment. You'll be captured. Please go."

The man turned and, without a word, retraced his steps. I maintained my position until I had seen him out of the gate, then I staggered into the house, sank on a lounge, and that's the last I knew till I saw the maid sprinkling my face with water.

As I was, I soon arose and by keeping smelling salts continually at my nostrils managed to get upstairs to my room. In the course of an hour the maid knocked at my door and said my brother had come. I was surprised at this, for he had written that he would be with us on Saturday afternoon, and it was now Friday. I was so ashamed of my terror at the approach of the lunatic—Henry had no respect for my timidity—that I resolved not to say anything about it. With the smelling salts in my hand, I went down into the living room.

Oh, my goodness gracious! Am I mad, or are my eyes askew? There beside Henry, stands the maniac! "What the dickens did you mean, Edith, by treating Mr. Trask as you did while ago? I missed the train, and he came on without me, only to be turned away by you. Were you crazy?"

"N-o-o, b-but I thought he was." Henry was very angry, but his friend soothingly said that I doubtless had an explanation. I gave it. A sickly smile gradually overspread the features of both the men, and, as for me, I ran up to my room and locked the door, and they didn't get me out of it till the next morning. When I came down to breakfast Henry and Mr. Trask were waiting for me. Henry, who was still mortified at my reception of his friend, said by way of introduction, just as if we hadn't met before:

"Edith, this is Mr. Trask, whom I wrote you I would bring up with me this week. I assure you he is in his right mind and has no intention of murdering you."

"Yes, I have," said the other. "I'm going to pluck her heart out of her." Now, wasn't that nice of him? Indeed, he turned the whole matter into a joke, getting Henry into good humor and making me feel less uncomfortable.

And he kept his word about plucking my heart out of me.

ALASKA CLAIMS THROWN OUT

Cunningham Coal Entries Are Disallowed.

DENOUNCED AS FRAUDS

Pinchot and Glavis Upheld by Decision of Secretary of Interior—End of Controversy.

Washington, June 27.—The famous Cunningham Alaskan coal land claims, through which, it has been alleged, the Morgan-Guggenheim syndicate planned to extend their vast interests in Alaska and to control one of the most valuable coal fields in the world, were finally disallowed by the department of the interior.

Secretary of the Interior Walter L. Fisher, having approved the department's decision, as handed down by Fred Dennett, commissioner of the general land office, the last door is believed to have been closed to the Cunningham claimants.

Their attorneys have threatened an appeal to the United States supreme court, but such an appeal can be based only on some point of law involved, and not on the findings of fact as announced by the department.

The Cunningham claims have been in the public eye constantly for more than two years. They brought about the Ballinger-Pinchot investigation by congress and the dismissal from the public service of Gifford Pinchot, as chief forester; John R. Glavis, a chief of field division in the land office, and several minor officials.

Both Pinchot and Glavis were dismissed for insubordination incident to their attacks on former Secretary of the Interior Ballinger, who, they charged, was favorably disposed toward the claims. These claims and the bitter controversy they started, it is believed, had much to do with the resignation of Mr. Ballinger last March as secretary of the interior. One of the first acts of his successor, Mr. Fisher, who is a friend of Pinchot and of Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, was to start these claims toward a final decision.

The importance of the decision is set forth by Mr. Shipp, secretary of the National Conservation association, who said: "The decision of the department of the interior in cancelling the Cunningham claims is a great victory for conservation. Aside from the value of the coal deposits thus saved from monopoly, it is of the utmost importance to the whole country in that it should clear the way for the prompt development of Alaskan coal fields for the benefit of all the people."

Fraudulent on the Face.

Commissioner Dennett, in his decision holding the claims for cancellation on the ground of fraud, declares that each of the thirty-three entries was improperly allowed because of fatal defects apparent on their face. He asserts that the government conclusively established the charges brought against the claimants, and that there is no doubt but that an agreement existed among them in violation of law.

The thirty-three claims involved amounted to an aggregate area of 5250 acres. The value of the land has been estimated high in the millions. The coal embraced in the claims is said to be among the finest in the world.

Commissioner Dennett makes frequent reference to the work of Glavis in prosecuting the government's case against the Cunningham claimants. He also refers at length to the negotiations between Cunningham and representatives of the Guggenheims, who were shown at the Ballinger-Pinchot hearing to have taken an option on these coal lands, which were to be worked in connection with the other extensive Guggenheim interests in Alaska.

The government charged against Cunningham and his associates that their entries of the coal lands were made in pursuance of an understanding and agreement entered into by all the claimants prior to location, to combine the several claims for the joint use and benefit of all. It was further asserted that the entries were made with the unlawful purpose that they should inure to the use and benefit of an association or corporation.

After reviewing all of the facts brought out, Mr. Dennett reached the conclusion that the claims had no legal standing and ordered them cancelled. Secretary Fisher promptly approved this finding.

COURT AGAIN AFTER GOMPERS

Labor Leaders Are Cited For Contempt.

Washington, June 27.—Justice Daniel T. Wright, of the District of Columbia supreme court, issued a rule against Samuel Gompers, Frank Morrison and John Mitchell, the labor leaders, requiring them to show cause on July 17 why they should not be judged guilty of contempt of court. The hearing in the matter will go over until the fall.

This action followed the filing of the report of the special committee of attorneys appointed by Justice Wright to inquire into the matter of contempt proceedings in the Bucks Stove and Range boycott case.

While technically the hearing will be before Justice Wright, the entire membership of the court will be present.

The report of the committee concludes with a suggestion that Gompers, Mitchell and Morrison may be prepared to apologize to the court and make promise of further submission, since the United States supreme court has decided adversely to their contention that the injunction against the publication of the stove company's name on the unfair list of the American Federationist violated the constitutional prerogative of freedom of the press and speech.

"Should such acknowledgment, apology and submission not be forthcoming after due notice and opportunity," says the report, "the course necessary to be pursued to maintain its dignity and due respect for and obedience to the law is respectfully submitted to the court for its consideration."

MAINE'S SECRET HIDDEN

Bixby Says Cause of Destruction of Battleship Will Never Be Known.

Tampa, Fla., June 27.—"The secret of the destruction of the battleship Maine will never be known," said General W. H. Bixby, chief of engineers in charge of the work of raising the Maine, upon his arrival here from Havana.

The damage to the vessel was such, says General Bixby, and the deterioration has been so great that it will be impossible to tell whether the ship was blown up from a force within or without. The greatest force, however, was from the inside, indicating that the forward magazine had exploded. Whether this was from a sympathetic explosion caused by a torpedo from the outside may forever remain a mystery. General Bixby says that unless the fragment of a torpedo is found there is no way of connecting some outside agency with the blowing up of the vessel.

Senate Kills Attempt to Alter Reciprocity Bill.

TRYING TO FIX DATE FOR VOTE

Penrose Draws Up Agreement For Unanimous Consent to Vote on Pact July 24 and Tariff Bills the Two Following Days.

Washington, June 27.—The Root amendment to the Canadian reciprocity bill was defeated in the senate. This disposes of one of the most serious menaces to the bill, and the indications are now that the reciprocity bill has free sailing and will pass without amendment at an earlier date than had been expected.

The Root amendment went down to defeat without any record vote, no roll call having been demanded. The vice president simply stated the question, there was a mild chorus of "ayes" and a louder chorus of "noes," and Mr. Sherman declared the amendment lost. The few who were in favor of the amendment apparently had no desire to put individual senators upon record.

The Root amendment proposed to delay free admission of wool pulp and print paper into this country until all restrictions against the exportation of these products had been removed by the Canadian provinces. Under the terms of the bill in its present form pulp and print paper will be admitted free from all provinces except those that maintain export restrictions.

Steps were taken looking toward the fixing of a date for voting upon the reciprocity and other tariff measures. An agreement was drawn up by Chairman Penrose, of the finance committee, and submitted to a number of senators on both sides of the chamber.

This agreement proposed that a vote should be taken by immediate consent on the Canadian reciprocity bill on July 24, on the farmers' free list on the following day and on the Underwood wool bill on July 26.

There was considerable interest manifested on the floor when Senator Penrose produced this document. He took it to the vice president, and the two retired to the rear of the senate chamber and began summoning senators to take a look at it.

Senator Martin, of Virginia, the minority leader, was called in, but was not very much disposed to acquiesce in it. Other Democratic leaders, including Senator Williams, of Mississippi, were consulted. Senator Smoot, of Utah; Senator Root and Senator Sutherland had a look at the document. Senator Penrose felt rather cheerful when the senate adjourned and said he would probably submit the agreement to the senate and ask for unanimous consent that it be made the standing order of business.

The progressive Republicans when they learned of the agreement were somewhat startled. They held hurried conferences, and the indications are that even if the Democrats acquiesce in the agreement a number of the progressive senators will stand out against it. In such a contingency the agreement will fail.

SUNDAY CONVERTS 1000

Evangelist is Holding Big Meetings In Erie.

Erie, Pa., June 27.—As a result of a series of evangelistic meetings being conducted here by Rev. "Billy" Sunday, a former base ball player, over 1000 persons have been converted, 200 of the conversions occurring during a service which started Saturday night and ended at 3 o'clock Monday morning.

For three hours following the meeting over 300 men remained in the church praying for the success of the campaign against sin. Following the prayer service they marched into the tenderloin district, where they sang gospel songs in the streets for two hours.

Sunday's text for the meeting was "Booze," and 7000 men crowded into the church.

Portland, Ore., Fire Chief Killed.

Portland, Ore., June 27.—David Campbell, chief of the Portland fire department, was instantly killed and three firemen received serious injuries in a blaze at the plant of an oil company. Campbell had led a small squad of firemen into the blazing warehouse, when a heavy explosion occurred. Two of them were hurled back through the door and Campbell was not seen again. His body was recovered when the flames had been overcome. The loss was $100,000.

Couple Hit by Train.

Erie, Pa., June 27.—Dr. P. M. Marshall, of Albion, was dashed to death against a freight station and his body horribly mutilated, while his fiancée, Teresa Bradish, was probably fatally burned when a train on the Nickel Plate road at North Girard struck the automobile in which they were riding, causing the gasoline tank to explode.

Killed by Pitched Ball.

Bridgeport, Conn., June 27.—John H. King, seventeen years old, is dead as a result of being hit on the temple by a pitched ball in a game.

A Welcome Change

Smoke curling up from the farmhouse chimney as the men are coming in from the fields, gives a pretty suggestion of a good supper and a comfortable home. But it also means a hot, tired woman, working hard over a blazing fire.

Your wife can escape this with a New Perfection Oil Cook-stove.

A New Perfection keeps a kitchen many degrees cooler than any other range, yet it does all a coal or wood range can do. It saves time, labor and fuel. No wood to cut; no coal to carry; no ashes; no soot. With the New Perfection oven it is the best cooking device you can find anywhere.

Made with 1, 2 and 3 burners, with long, turquoise blue enameled chimneys. Handsomely finished throughout. The 2- and 3-burner stoves can be had with or without a cabinet top, which is fitted with drop shelves, towel racks, etc.

A Reader Cures His Constipation—Try It Free

Simple way for any family to retain the good health of all its members

The editors of "Health Hints" and "Questions and Answers" have one question that is put to them more often than any other, and which strangely enough, they find the most difficult to answer. That is "How can I cure my constipation?"

Dr. Caldwell, an eminent specialist in diseases of the stomach, liver and bowels, has looked the whole field over, has practised the specialty for forty years and is convinced that the ingredients contained in what is called Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin has the best claim to attention from constipated people.

Its success in the cure of stubborn constipation has done much to displace the use of salts, waters, strong cathartics and such things. Syrup Pepsin, by training the stomach and bowel muscles to again do their work naturally, and with its tonic ingredients strengthening the nerves, brings about a lasting cure. Among its strongest supporters are Mr. John Graveline of 98 Milwaukee Ave., Detroit, Mich., and Mr. J. A. Vernon of Oklahoma City. Thousands of others of both sexes have written to Dr. Caldwell telling of gratifying results. It can be obtained of any druggist at fifty cents and one dollar a bottle, or if you want to try it first a free sample bottle can be obtained by writing the doctor.

FOR SINGLE COMB CRANKS.

It's a puzzler to those who gaze on all the breeds and varieties of chickens where they all came from.

There's the sporty White Leghorn, with his red single comb; the Golden Laced Wyandotte, with rose comb; the big Light Brahma, with the pea comb; the Silver Crested Black Polish, with V comb; the Crevecoeur, with butterfly comb, and the Black Breasted Red Malay, with strawberry comb.

All the breeds and varieties in colors and combs had their Adam in the Gallus Bankivus, a little single comb red rooster that scratched in the jungles of the Ganges.

THE SINGLE COMB.

But whence this variety in combs?

It is ascribed to domestication, change of conditions and other things, but give the credit to the ingenuity of man, the wonder worker of the ages.

The most common and beautiful is the single and the next in popularity is the rose. Those wearing single exclusively are games of these varieties: Black Breasted Red, Brown Red, Golden and Silver Duckwing, Birchen, Red Pyle, White and Black; the Plymouth Rocks, Barred, White, Buff, Silver Pencilled, Partridge, Columbian; Cochins, Buff, Black, White and Partridge; Langshans, Black and White; Javas, Black and Mottled; Leghorns, Black and Silver; Dorkings, White, Silver, Gray and Colored; Orpingtons, Buff, Black, White; Blue Andalusians, Aucons, White Minorcas and Black Spanish.

THE ROSE COMB.

Those bred in both rose and single are White, Brown and Buff Leghorns, Rhode Island Reds and Black Minorcas.

The standard requires all single combs to have five points, except Minorcas and Dorkings, which have six, the comb to be refined, fine grained, symmetrical, plumb and in all ways to be an ornament to the bird.

DON'TS.

Don't let your angry passions rise to scratch that other fellow's eyes because he landed the grand prize.

But meet the winner with a smile.

And wish him lots of luck.

You'll get that cup another time.

If you have proper pluck.

Don't worry about the future; you may never see it; don't say "Oh, poor me!" You may never be it.

Onward, up, with hand and brain.

If you fall, rise, start again.

Your crown shineth from you height.

Onward, upward, to the light!

Don't snarl, quarrel, growl or howl.

That's the bulldog's business. Do the manly part, show a cheerful heart, reach the helping hand, win a reward grand. Always remember.

A deed, a smile, a kind word given, May help some weary soul to heaven.

Don't look on woman's work as beneath man's. Remember mother and such thoughts will smother.

Don't take any stock in luck. Word's misspelled. It should be pluck. That is where the gold mine's struck.

There will be market on the fourth of July.

WHY THE PHILLIES SLUMPED

Rumors Say Manager Doolin and President Fogel Have Had Run-in.

Unless President Fogel permits Manager Doolin to manage the Phillies without interference the club is likely to slide to the bottom of the heap. It is learned from a reliable source that the slump of the Phillies during the past few weeks is due to a row between Fogel and Doolin. The president of the club is accusing some of the players of doing too much joy riding and has charged Manager Doolin with having been looking at the moon through a wineglass. Fogel wants the men fined for the most trivial offense, but Doolin refuses to sanction fines. The result is that the players do not know just where they are at and are not putting their heart in the work. Unless Mr. Fogel refrains from interfering with the active playing department there is likely to be mutiny. Manager Doolin says the men are behaving themselves and he will not stand for any interference.

TUESDAY MARKET

Tuesday's market comprised nearly every variety of vegetables, plenty of cabbage, beans, peas and new potatoes, the first of the season. Forty two bushels of cherries and twenty three and a half bushels of raspberries were on sale. There will be market on the fourth of July.

IN THE REALM OF FASHION

Girl's Graduation Gown.

The closing of school means a pretty new dress for the average young girl, even though she may not have reached the dignity of being a graduate. There are nowadays few schools that do not indulge in some sort of closing exercises even for the undergraduates.

COMMENCEMENT DRESS.

The gown illustrated here is suitable for a girl from fourteen to seventeen. It is made of one of the summer muslins. The bodice has a yoke effect in tucks and valenciennes lace above a wide band of broderie anglaise. The skirt is crossed with broad horizontal bands of broderie anglaise, with vandykes of valenciennes lace set above the hem. A narrow flounce of the embroidery is used, together with insertions of valenciennes above the embroidery.

LOVELY LACES ARE EVERYWHERE SEEN

Flounces, Scarfs, Veils, Caps and Collars of This Fabric.

There is a greater quantity of lace used in modern dress than has been the case for many years, and real old lace is always made use of when possible. Lace shawls, lace flounces, lace veils, lace hippets and caps that have been in treasure boxes for many and many a long year are now displayed with pride and delight.

The fashionable tunic provides a capital opportunity for the lace scarfs and, if big enough, the wedding veil. Incidentally the lace scarf as a scarf is in great demand. Combined with net or voile de soie or any of the sheer materials now so fashionable, lace flounces are utilized, while the shawls serve a good purpose for the draped overdress.

Old family lace is, however, not such an enviable possession as it is often considered, and the up to date woman contends that, while she adores old lace, she can often get better results from the most modern designs and in the imitation rather than the real when the gown is to be made entirely or in greater part of lace.

The new laces are exquisite in pattern and texture, whether in the all over, flounce, band or tunic. Often there is embroidery worked over the lace—heavy silk embroidery in colors, gold or silver or in pearls and rhinestones. This seems too much to the conservative taste when the lace itself is so exquisite in pattern, but this is an age of overelaboration, and what might at other times seem too heavy and too elaborate now looks only smart and effective.

Lace is combined with many materials. Satin, silk, crepe de chine and brocade, all are utilized as foundation, while cloth of gold and cloth of silver must not be excluded from the list. All white or color for the foundation is decided by individual taste. This prevents monotony and is one reason why the fashions this season are so varied and striking.

Parasol Colors.

The colors that have proved great favorites in parasol lines, says the Dry Goods Economist, are coral, cerise, American Beauty red, empire green, king's blue and the purple and violet shades. The run on empire and hunter's green has been enormous, both in the parasols in solid color and in the combinations with black and black and white. Coral was exceedingly strong early in the season and continues good, but American Beauty red has been gaining on it, and the purples are becoming stronger and stronger.
